Rogue Nation Bails Out its Citizens!

Portland, OR, February 26, 2009 – In economics, a bailout is an act of loaning or giving capital to a failing business in order to save it from bankruptcy, insolvency, or total liquidation and ruin.

These days, you can't turn the corner without hearing something about the crumbling economy and the planned bailout. The United States government has allocated $787 billion to bail out the nation during this recession. But they aren't the only nation taking action.

Rogue Nation has put together a bailout plan to aid Rogue Nation citizens during these difficult financial times, appropriately named the Rogue Nation Bailout Program (RNBOP). Twice-a-day, at each of our embassies, the Rogue Nation Bailout Program pays 100% of a customer(s) tab. Each unsuspecting person or group is randomly chosen, inducted into the Rogue Nation (if not already a citizen) and relieved of their debt to Rogue. Since the program was put into effect, Rogue has bailed out over 350 tabs.

At the Rogue Ales Public House in San Francisco, Janet Wallace and three of her friends (pictured) were watching Super Bowl XLIII when they were randomly chosen to be “bailed out” of their tab. She said, “It’s always fun to get something for free. It’s especially so when the something free comes completely unexpected.”

A fine example of the Rogue Nation Bailout Program hard at work! The Rogue Nation boasts a museum, a library, a university, a newspaper, a film company, record company, coins and currency, passports, national ID cards, stamps, license plates, a flag, a constitution, uniforms, shoes, a creamery, a national past time, a literary journal, a bakery, a chef laureate, a bull, a hop farm, a pledge and boxer shorts.

Celebrating its second century, Rogue Ales is an Artisan Varietal Brewery founded in Oregon in 1988, as one of America’s first 50 microbreweries. Rogue has 600+ awards for taste and quality and is distributed nationally and in 20 countries.
